Countywide Planning Policies

Countywide Planning Policies (CPPs) are a set of comprehensive plans that guide the growth and development of King County and its cities. The CPPs are developed through a collaborative process involving various stakeholders, including the County, cities, and community members. The CPPs aim to ensure that development is sustainable, equitable, and responsive to the needs of all residents.

Key Components of the CPPs

- Growth Management Planning Council (GMPC)
- Vision 2050
- Countywide Planning Policies

GMPC is the governing body for the CPPs and is responsible for overseeing the development and implementation of the plans. Vision 2050 is a regional plan that sets the goals and objectives for the county and its cities.

The CPPs include a range of policies and plans that address transportation, housing, economic development, and environmental stewardship. They are designed to ensure that development is aligned with the vision of the community and that the needs of all residents are met.
