Countywide Planning Policies

Housing

Countywide Planning Policies (CPPs) are the core way King County develops, implements, and evaluates a comprehensive vision for the future. The Planning Council establishes policies to guide the development of the region's Comprehensive Plan, which outlines the region's land-use, growth, and development strategies. The Plan sets forth a framework to ensure that King County's growth is sustainable, equitable, and economically vibrant.

The Planning Council also works to implement policies to support housing affordability, including strategies to increase the supply of housing units across the region.

The Council is guided by the region's Vision 2050 and the 2018 Regional Affordable Housing Task Force recommendations, and it seeks to align the region's growth strategies with the needs of its residents.
