3 - 5 weeks for the County to screen an application, and the applicant to complete it.

20 - 30 weeks to process an application from the date the County deems it complete until the permit is approved and ready to issue. Processing times depend on the quality of the application, the number of other applications in the queue, and current staffing.

County screening: the time from application submittal until the application is screened for completeness by County staff.

Applicant completing application: the time spent by the applicant providing additional information needed to complete an application after its initial screening by the County.

County first review: the time from when the application is deemed complete by the County until County staff complete the first review of the application.

Corrections and follow-up review: the time for applicant corrections and County approval for issuance.
