Once the scope of a request has been determined, and research completed to identify all responsive records, requesters can expect an estimate of fees associated with their request, if any. The KCSO may require a 10 percent deposit.

When will I get a response to my Request?

RCW 42.56.520 provides that a response to a request for public records must be made by the agency within five business days. Within five business days (excluding holidays) after receiving a request, we will:

- Acknowledge receipt of the request and provide a reasonable estimate for further response; or
- Fulfill the request; or
- Provide an internet address and link to the records on our website; or
- Seek clarification; or,
- Deny the request with an accompanying written statement of the specific reasons.

How long will it be before I obtain the records I've requested?

While we try to process requests in the order received, the KCSO averages 550 open requests at any given time. Depending on the scope of your request and the records identified as being responsive, we may need to respond through a series of installments. The following factors will determine the time it takes to respond:

1) clarification required for unclear requests, 2) searching for records (more time if large, complex or date ranges more than 2 years), 3) time to assemble, review and redacted records, 4) time to provide 3rd party notice to affected individuals/agencies, and 5) availability of records, other essential agency functions, agency resources including staff availability, current record request case load, etc.
