Where is it issued?
Any eligible person may apply for a Regional Reduced Fare Permit at any customer service office of any of the participating transit agencies: King County Ferry District, Pierce County Ferries, Sound Transit and Washington State Ferries do not issue the permits but will honor those issued by any of the other systems.

How long is it valid?
Permits issued to persons 65 and older or to persons permanently disabled will be valid indefinitely. No renewal is necessary. Persons with disabilities that will last up to five years may receive temporary permits. If documentation does not include an expiration date, the TPP will be valid for three years. These permits, which carry an expiration date, may be renewed only if the disability continues beyond that date. Persons certified by approved health care providers as permanently disabled may receive permanent permits. Participating agencies retain the right to ask for certification upon loss of a permit or at any other time.

What does it cost?
There is no fee to obtain a new permit. Replacement permits may be obtained from the issuing agency for $3.00.

How does it work?
The permit is an identification card used as proof of eligibility to pay a reduced fare. The permit has no cash value and may not be used as a transfer between systems, except in cases where ORCA was used to pay for fare if ORCA transfer rules apply. The permit holder must pay the amount of the reduced fare on each system used, and use of the permit is subject to any time restrictions in effect by each system.

Questions?
If you have comments or questions regarding the Regional Reduced Fare Permit, please contact your local agency. Participating agencies are listed on the last page of this brochure.

Title VI Notice: All participating agencies in the TPP program follow Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and related statutes and regulations in all programs and activities. For more information, or to obtain a Title VI Complaint form, please contact the appropriate agency.
