King County 2018-2019 Charter Review Commission: Thematic Summary of Recommendations to Future Commissions Draft v. 1/2/19

In the winter of 2019, Triangle Associates conducted phone interviews with King County Charter Review Commissioners to collect their recommendations to future Charter Review Commissions, as well as the future King County Council. Triangle Associates interviewed 12 of the 21 Commissioners. Below is a summary of the recommendations gathered.

Convening Process Recommendations

- Appointment Process: Be transparent about how Commissioners were appointed. Allow people to apply to serve on the Commission in order to broaden the pool of potential Commissioners.
- Onboarding and Training: Onboarding topics may include:
 - History and demographics of the County
 - The scope of the Charter
 - A shared vocabulary and procedures (ie. Robert's Rules of Order)
 - Equity and inclusion
 - An overview of the decisions that take place once the Commission Report is complete
 - o Proposals or topics of interests from Councilmembers as guest speakers
 - o Advice from a previous Commissioner as a guest speaker
 - A review of this document, along with information on the processes used by previous Commissions
- Resources: Understand resources available to the Commission and determine which resources are required to succeed.
- Composition and Size of the Commission:
 - Appoint Commissioners who reflect the demographics (income, race, gender, Council District) of the County to encourage a broad range of expertise and interests.
 - Include people who are not typically engaged with policy to have a diversity of perspectives, ways of processing information, and coming to decisions.
 - Appoint someone who has previously served on the Commission to provide institutional knowledge.
 - Have a Commission of an odd number that is less than 20 Commissioners to increase productivity and break tie votes.
- Level of Commitment: Be clear about the role of the Commission and the level of commitment, including the role of the Commission in the public engagement process. Consider a process or consequences if Commissioner attendance is not adequate.
- Get to Know Each Other: Hold an in-depth retreat to allow a dialogue around each other's expertise and interests, and to establish the culture of the Commission.

Overall Process Recommendations

• Timeframe: Set a timeframe to complete the report and stick to it as best as possible. An ambiguous timeframe opens the risk of unfocused discussions. Lengthy processes can result in fatigue.

- Facilitator: Bring in a facilitator, ideally with public engagement experience, at the beginning of the process to help develop structure, improve efficiency, and hold an inclusive process. Their scope should include supporting subcommittee work.
- Subcommittees: Break into topic-based subcommittees early in the process. Have subcommittees meet with relevant stakeholders to gather specific input for charter amendments. Develop proposed charter amendments within those subcommittees so that Commission feedback can be provided on a written draft, rather than a verbal proposal. Check in with the full Commission regularly throughout the subcommittee process to ensure broad support.
- Amendment Topics and Decisions: Establish a clear brainstorming, winnowing, and decisionmaking process. Refrain from revisiting topics once the Commission has made a decision.
- Roles and Responsibilities: Distinguish the roles and relationship between the Chairs, Commissioner, County staff, and the facilitator early on.
- Compensation of Commissioners: Reimburse Commissioners for travel mileage and for their time in order to be more inclusive of people who might otherwise not be able to participate. This shows a commitment to equitable participation.
- Remote Participation: Make meetings accessible, by using the latest technology tools, for example.

Public Engagement Recommendations

- Administrative Resources to Support Outreach:
 - Have a consultant and/or staff resources dedicated to supporting the engagement process.
 - Have a spreadsheet or way to track input received from the public, when it was discussed by the Commission and what decision was reaches, as well as what follow up was conducted to the person/organization that submitted the comment.
- Outreach Methods:
 - Engage communities and organizations early in the process. Work with an intermediaries such as community based organizations to help communicate with constituents. Provide compensation to these organizations for their time and expertise.
 - Frame engagement around issues of concern to the general public and identify key stakeholder groups to reach out to on specific topics.
 - Provide a variety of mechanisms for the public to provide feedback. Consider trends in public engagement and develop a plan around those trends. Have a comprehensive media campaign. Utilize online tools that allows people to engage with each other on topics.
- Outreach Locations:
 - Don't rely on written invitations for public feedback. Physically go to existing community meetings and events.
 - Hold Town Hall meetings at locations that are accessible to the public and at different times of the day. Have Town Hall dates available months in advance.
- Outreach to Organizations:

• Be a liaison/mentor to help organizations develop feedback. Provide them with information, materials, and the tools to engage.

Drafting the Report Recommendations

- Report Content: Have Commissioners, rather than County staff, write as much of the report as possible to enhance ownership and provide opportunities for peer review. County staff can support the writing process as needed.
- Editing the Report: Use collaborative online tools to review and edit drafts of proposals and the report. Provide many opportunities for the Commission to collaboratively edit the report or have a copy of the report that is always available to the Commission for editing.

Very nice work! Thank you for doing this.

I spotted and fixed perhaps 3 little typos. I added just a few words near the part about reimbursing for mileage, to make it clear why there is a concern: some folks who would like to participate and whose voices we should hear may not be able to afford involvement.

Regarding the important observation that Commissioners should understand the commitment they are undertaking before agreeing to serve, consider adding a little specific language about the issue of quorums - the bigger the commission, the more people need to attend a meeting so action can be taken. I at least never thought of this issue at the beginning when I agreed to serve.

Hope everyone is having a good new year so far.

Dear Commissioners,

Attached please find a draft summary of your recommendations to future Charter Review Commissions. This will be reviewed next Monday the 13th by the subcommittee you appointed at your last commission meeting (subcommittee members are Commissioners Miller, Ford, Nixon, Oliver and Williams).

If you have edits to this draft, please forward them to the subcommittee members so they may assess and take up at their meeting next Monday. They will be accepting edits up through noon this Friday the 10th.

Subcommittee members: if you have edits, please send them to Mishu by 3:00 pm this Friday so that she can compile them into a single document which you will review on Monday. Thank you. Sharon

Hi all,

In preparation for out upcoming meeting, attached is my proposed set of recommendations to the next commission. That meeting is scheduled for the first day of the spring semester, so I may not be able to be there.

To address Mike's concern about OPMA, I am including only those who gave input to Triangle, which I think is less than a quorum. If I'm wrong about that, I should be really clear that I'm sending this to help with preparation for our meeting, but not as an attempt to deliberate.

Thanks!

Liz

King County 2018-2019 Charter Review Commission Process Recommendations to the 2028 Charter Review Commission

The Commissions has prepared this list of recommendations to the next Charter Review Commission to help inform your work. We present this to support your work and in the hopes that you can learn from our experience.

To generate these recommendations, the Commission directed its consultant, Triangle Associates, to conduct interviews with Commissioners. Triangle interviewed 12 of the 21 Commissioners. After those interviews were complete, a subcommittee met to review the results of those interviews and developed this guide.

Serving on the Commission is an honor and an important responsibility. We hope that you find it as gratifying as we have, and we hope that these recommendations help you get started.

Recommendations.

Convening Process.

The Commission recognizes that the convening process is conducted by the Executive and Council, not the Commission. However, we provide these recommendations for the consideration of those bodies given our unique perspective on how convening affects overall outcome.

- Appointment Process: We recommend that the appointment process begin with an application by interested individuals. We recommend making clear on the application the level of commitment required. This accomplishes several important goals. First, it allows for transparency in the process. Second, it requires commissioner to expend the effort to describe why they want to serve on the commission. Third, it potentially broadens the pool of potential Commissioners.
- Composition and Size of the Commission: We recommend the following as to the composition of the commission, recognizing that the Charter currently mandates that the Commission be comprised on not less than 15 members and that those members include at least one from each Council district.
 - Appoint Commissioners who reflect the demographics (income, race, gender, Council District) of the County.
 - Appoint at least one Commissioner who has previously served on the Commission to provide institutional knowledge.
 - Appoint only fifteen members. This smaller number will allow for more efficient decision-making. Twenty-one members was too many.

Process Recommendations

- Role of Chairs. We recommend that the role of chair be clearly described in a job description before the appointment is made.
- Resources: We recommend that the Commission understand the resources available to it, including its budget allocation and make active decisions, through its Chair(s), about how to expend those resources in order to be most effective.
- Facilitator: We recommend that the Commission bring in a facilitator, ideally with public engagement experience, at the beginning of the process to help develop structure and hold an inclusive process. Their scope should include supporting subcommittee work (see below).
- Initial Retreat: We recommend that the Commission hold an initial, at least half-day, retreat to allow the commissioners to get to know one another and understand each other's expertise and interests. This will help the Commission to be intentional about its own culture. .We recommend that the retreat be facilitated by the Chairs and the facilitator (see below) and that the Commission use this as a way to "onboard" the Commissioners. We urge that the following topics be covered at the retreat.
 - The scope of the Charter
 - The Role of the Commission as a whole and of each commissioner
 - History and demographics of the County
 - Equity and inclusion Basics
 - Decision-making procedures
 - If the Commission is planning to use Robert's Rules of Order, we recommend a training in that vocabulary and process.
 - Consider introducing a racial equity decision-making toolkit
 - An overview of the process for developing the report (the Chairs and consultant should prepare a recommendation, including firm timelines, for the Commission's review)
 - An overview of the decisions that take place once the Commission Report is complete
 - A review of this document, along with Advice from a previous Commissioner as a guest speaker
- Subcommittees: We recommend that the Commission break into topic-based subcommittees early in the process. Those subcommittees should meet with relevant stakeholders to gather specific input for charter amendments. Committee members can serve as liaison/mentor to provide those stakeholders with information, materials, and the tools to engage. The subcommittees would then be responsible to develop proposed charter amendments along with written rationale, which would then become the pieces of the report. Those proposals would be brought to the Commission for its approval or rejection.
- Roles and Responsibilities: We recommend that the Commission Chairs and facilitator develop job descriptions for the Chairs, the Commissioners, and the consultant early on. In addition, we recommend that a written description of the role of Executive and Council staff be developed by those staff members and provided to the commission early on as well.

- Compensation of Commissioners: We recommendation that the Commission reimburse Commissioners for travel mileage and consider a stipend to compensate Commissioners for their time in order to be more inclusive of people who might otherwise not be able to participate.
- Remote Participation: We strongly recommend that the Commission engage KCIT or other technology staff to support the technology that allows remote participation.

Public Engagement Recommendations

- Administrative Resources to Support Outreach:
 - We recommend that the Commission engage a separate consultant and/or dedicate staff resources to supporting the engagement process.
- Outreach Methods:
 - We recommend that the Commission engage communities early in the process by working with intermediaries such as community based organizations. We recommend providing compensation to these organizations for their time and expertise.
 - Provide a variety of mechanisms for the public to provide feedback. Utilize online tools that allow people to engage with each other on topics.
- Outreach Locations:
 - We recommend that Commissioners, probably from the relevant subcommittee, go to existing community meetings and events in addition to its own townhall meetings.
 - We recommend that the Commission hold Town Hall meetings at different times of the day and have Town Hall dates available months in advance.

Larson, Linda Tuesday, January 7, 2020 1:38 PM Daly, Sharon Re: CRC Post Mortem Phone Interview

Sharon,

The document is very useful and a great summary/guide for future commissions. My only questions are around the recommendations for "compensation" of commissioners and third party organizations. I support removing barriers to participation by a broad range of interests, and think that reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses for commissioners is appropriate, but wonder about the legality of "compensation" in a more general sense. I also wonder if doing so would open a can of worms best left unopened. How is reasonable compensation going to be determined, and who would do that?

My thanks to all the commissioners for their thoughtful evaluation of process improvements.

Linda
