Dear Friend,

Government should be responsive, accountable and understandable.

As your elected official, my role is to be a bridge between the County and its citizens by providing accurate and current information, and by listening to your advice on how to improve our government's existing programs and services.

This comprehensive guide provides you with a directory of local government agencies and offices, as well as list of statewide and federal officials. I hope you find this guide helpful and informative, and I trust it will prove useful in resolving future questions or concerns involving all levels of government.

While we made every effort to ensure the accuracy of the information in this guide, some agencies and offices may have changed their contact information since the publication of this guide. For the most up-to-date information, please visit our website at www.kingcounty.gov/vonreichbauer/Newsletters and click on Citizen's Guide. You may also call my office at (206) 296-1007 or the King County Information Line (206) 296-0100, toll free (800) 325-6165.

With best wishes,

King County Government

King County's population and topography are marked by rich variety and contrast. Stretching from the shores of Puget Sound to the crest of the Cascade Mountains, the land offers urban landscapes, beaches, pastures, forests and rugged mountain peaks. Home to over 1.8 million residents, King County has a population comparable to the state of Nebraska, and a land area over twice the size of Rhode Island.

In 1968, King County became the first Home Rule Charter County in the state. Drafted by a group of citizen free-holders and approved by the voters, the charter established the office of the County Executive and County Council. Under this measure the county operates much like a federal or state government, with three distinct branches: legislative, executive, and judicial.
