FINDINGS:

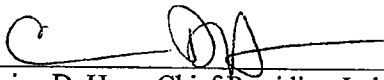

1. The King County District Court Executive Committee on February 28, 2003 unanimously passed a proposal to stop using the Finance and Business Operations Division (FBOD) to collect probation fees. When the FBOD was first used by the Court, they did not charge for their service. However, since 2000 the cost of their service had risen 303% (from zero to $738,000) for billing probation fees and collecting District Court delinquent accounts.
2. As of July 1, 2003 no new Probation fees were sent to FBOD.
3. As of October 1, 2003 final billing on existing cases was made by FBOD.
4. As of January 1, 2004 no monies are received by FBOD on behalf of District Court.
5. As part of the transfer of cases from FBOD back to District Court, five reports were provided to District Court:
 - a. DC Collection Accounts
 - b. DC Coll Accts 1
 - c. DC Billing Accounts
 - d. DC Closed Accounts
 - e. DC Limbo Accounts
6. After processing the DC Coll Accts 1 report, it was then compared to a list of all District Court Probation accounts currently in collection with Alliance One. Review of the report reflected the cases listed below as "not in collection."
7. Due to the age of the accounts, the court will write off the outstanding balance due on the cases listed. This request is based on:
 - a. State Auditor's Exit Conference dated September 11, 2002. ". . . We believe the difficulty has been increased by the sheer volume of stale accounts held in the department's accounts receivable. We recommend the procedure for write off and analysis of accounts be improved."
 - b. King County Auditor's Office Special Study District Court Revenues September 20, 2002 (page 12) "The chance of collecting receivables diminishes as they age. The FBOD estimates that only about 3.5% to 14% of the accounts which are more than one year old are collectible."
8. A docket entry will be made on each of the cases reflecting probation fees had been assigned by FBOD for collection. The entry will include: Balance due, date each account was assigned by FBOD to SCA Credit for collection, and that the accounts were not transferred by SCA to AllianceOne.

GENERAL ADMINISTRATIVE ORDER:

Effective October 1, 2004 all accounts listed in this order are written off as uncollectible.

ADOPTED by action of the Judges of the King County District Court meeting this 24th day of September, 2004,

Signed this 28th day of September 2004

Corrina D. Harn, Chief Presiding Judge
King County District Court
